The World Monologue Games is a global event that sees thousands of performers from scores of countries participate in an epic acting competition and virtual showcase. This year over 2500 participants from 51 countries entered the competition.

Githmi Jayaratne, 10, won 1st place from the judges' choice in the regional finals. "Cue School of Drama gave me the confidence to pursue my talent and I'm thrilled to be in the world finals," says Githmi.

"I am super excited and proud to be selected for the global finals and to represent Sri Lanka. A big thank you to my drama teacher Miss Ranga for moulding me into who I am today," says Nishelle, 11, who won 3rd place in both the judges' choice and audience votes in the regional finals.

"We are the first and only school from Sri Lanka that had our students selected for the World Monologue Games global finals. This has been an amazing journey and definitely a positive outcome of online learning. We are honoured and excited to be in this competition and partner with the WMG. I wish Githmi and Nishelle all the very best as they go on to represent Sri Lanka," says Cue founder Ranga Jayaratne.

Cue offers speech and drama education focused on providing practical experience in performance. "With victories like these we prove that our curriculum and fun learning approach is making a positive change in how speech and drama is taught in Sri Lanka," says Ranga.
